THE DREAM TEAM OF 1947

The story of how a small Iowa college upset all the major powers to win the NCAA Wrestling Championship in 1947

By Arno P. Niemand

This is the remarkable, untold story of the greatest team you've never heard of.

The wrestling team of Cornell College, a private Methodist liberal arts college with only 415 male students, which won the Division I wrestling championship in 1947, defeating all the major powers in the tournament by a substantial margin. This tiny Iowa college thus became the first school outside of the state of Oklahoma ever to win the team championship since team scores were officially kept; no other private school before or since has done so.

The story of a Cornell graduate, Class of 1937

Mail Call: The Wartime Correspondence of an American Couple, 1943-1945 is the true story of one young couple—a dental student and a college coed—who were married just weeks after Pearl Harbor. The Pacific War was to have a profound effect on their lives, as it also would for the thousands who served and for those left behind.

In human detail, the letters describe everyday life in the 1940s for military personnel and civilians alike: how they coped, what their daily lives were like, and how much they missed each other. The letters open up a window to a long-ago time and allow us to see our parents and grandparents in their youth against the background of a global war.

A PHYSICIAN UNDER THE NAZIS

Memoirs of Henry Glenwick

Edited by David Glenwick
Foreword by
Thane Rosenbaum

A Physician Under the Nazis are the memoirs of the first forty years (1909-1948) of the life of Henry Glenwick. It focuses on his experiences as a physician in Russian-occupied Ukraine after the outbreak of World War II, his return to the Warsaw ghetto, and his subsequent journey through labor and concentration camps in Poland and Germany. Following a post-war period in Displaced Persons camps in Germany, the book concludes with the writer's cross-Atlantic trip to New York and the beginnings of his life in the United States. This memoir provides the rarely-heard perspective on the Holocaust of a Jewish physician who served both Russian and German occupiers during the war.

"A true story of courage, luck, brutality, and both the friendship and hostility of strangers. It is the Holocaust in microcosm, and I heartily recommend it."

—Stephen Berk, professor of Holocaust and Jewish studies, Union College

Old Jokes

That's what you'll find in works of humor set in 12th-century England.

Author William of Suffolk '69 satirizes past and present, with special emphasis on literary convention and expectation. Protagonist William the Scribbler is a good-natured ego freak serving as Deputy Justiciar to King Henry II.

He currently appears in four books molded around cozy mystery skeletons, but always funny side driven.

Sorta.
